The Passing of Luther J. Williams as a Result of Hemorrhage.

Mr. Luther J.Williams, a well-known gentleman, residing at No. 903 Court street. Led suddenly at 1:30 o'clock yesterday of hemorrhage. His death was totally unexpected and a great shock to the members of his family.

Mr. Williams, for several days last week, was confined to his home by a slight accident which he sustained while working in the navy yard, but from which he had so far recovered that he was able to go to work on Tuesday. Dr. G. W. O. Maupin, his family physician, saw him several times during his confinement, but merely in connection with the injury. No one dreamed but that Mr. Williams was enjoying good bodily health.

Mr. Williams ate a hearty dinner yesterday about 1 o'clock, and soon afterwards went up stairs to his room. A few moments later his sister, Miss Harrlet Williams, heard him knocking on the floor with his cane, a signal by which he sometimes called her when indisposed. She hastened to his room and found him bleeding profusely from the mouth, having evidently ruptured a blood vessel. Miss Williams summoned Mr. Meads, a nelghbor next door, to her assistance, but by the time he reached the room the bleeding man had almost lost consciousness. Death ensued in about five minutes after the hemorrhage began.

Mr. Williams was a son of the late David Williams, and was a brother of Mr. David E. Williams, of this city. He was about 65 years of age, and was never married. At the beginning of the civil war he joined the Confederate army as a member of the Old Dominion Guards, of this city, and served to the end of hostilities.
